ABSTRACT

A communication system comprising a plurality of user terminals connected to a communication network and a communication server connected to the communication network, wherein that communication server, when a chat start event has occurred, starts a chat simultaneously among user terminals related in advance to the chat start event out of the plurality of user terminals.